Funding initiative opening Jan. 23 to provide grants to health-focused nonprofit organizations in the Tri-State

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. – The Pallottine Foundation of Huntington will begin accepting applications Tuesday, Jan. 23, 2024, for its next Healthy Communities Initiative, which provides grant funding opportunities to 501(c)(3) nonprofit organizations with a health-focused mission.

“Each year, our team looks forward to learning about new projects that can positively impact health in our community,” said Laura Boone, CEO of the Pallottine Foundation of Huntington. “We encourage potential applicants to reach out to us before and during the application period to discuss ideas and ask questions.”

Healthy Communities grants support both health and wellness and capacity building projects that align with the foundation’s mission to foster systemic change and empower individuals to lead lives of optimal health, self-reliance and self-respect.

The funding initiative is open to eligible organizations with programs that support residents within the Foundation’s service area, which consists of Boone, Cabell, Kanawha, Lincoln, Logan, Mason, Mingo, western Putnam, and Wayne counties in West Virginia; Boyd, Carter, Floyd, Greenup, Johnson, Lawrence, Martin, and Pike counties in Kentucky; and Gallia, Lawrence, and Scioto counties in Ohio.

Grant applications will be accepted through Feb. 20, 2024, and awards will be announced in late May. Grant awards range from $3,500 to $50,000. Eligibility requirements and application guidelines are available online at <https://pallottinehuntington.org/healthy-communities-initiative/>.
